State Park Rustic Cabins

Michigan State Parks have more than 60 cabins available to rent. Over a dozen different parks have cabins for your convenience and pleasure. These rustic cabins can be a functional and enjoyable base camp for hunting, fishing or hiking. Cross-country skiing, ice fishing or snowmobiling can be just as much fun.

The cabins are on quiet sites and many overlook water. The smaller cabins tend to be more comfortable for families. At some sites, two or more nearby cabins can accommodate larger groups.

The cabins have single size beds or bunks with mattresses, a table, chairs, broom and wood stove for heat. There are outside hand-pumps for water and vault toilets.

You must bring bedding, cookware and tableware, axe and handsaw, first-aid kit, lanterns, flashlights, and bug repellent. We recommend a portable stove for cooking. When you call, ask if additional furnishings are provided. At the more remote cabins, the park may provide extra gear so you won't have to carry in as much.

NOTE: Porcupine Mountains' cabins are accessible by backpacking from 1 to 4 miles. They do not have hand-pumps for water. Besides the bunks with mattresses, the cabins have cookware, tableware, axe and saw.

Highland's Bass Lake Cabin is equipped with an indoor restroom with shower, kitchen facilities including electric stove and refrigerator, and a gas furnace.

Application

- Call or visit the park and ask if suitable cabins and dates are available for your visit.
- If you make a reservation by phone, send a completed application and the total camping fee to the park.
- If you send the application directly to the park, it is your responsibility to call the park and confirm your reservation.

Cancellations

If you can't use your reservation, notify the appropriate park office. To get a full camping fee refund (minus the reservation fee), you must notify the park 30 days before your reserved date. If the cancellation is less than 30 days before your expected arrival, one night cancellation fee will be deducted from the camping fee refund. If the park isn't notified until after the first reserved night, the cancellation fee, plus the fee for each reserved night prior to notice, will be deducted from the refund.
